

EUROPEAN FEDERATION OF
BIOTECHNOLOGY

An invitation to join the new EFB as a personal and institutional member

November 2003

The European Federation of Biotechnology has recently been reformed and reinvigorated. Sections, representing biotechnologists from all European and many other countries, cover a broad range of specialised topics, while Task Groups deal with horizontal issues such as public perception, education, safety, international relations and innovation.

On behalf of and funded by the European Commission, EFB Task Group on International Relations (TGIR) has recently embarked on a major project, EFBIC, to facilitate concrete as well as strategic collaborations between EU and China. In the years to come, TGIR expects to engage in similar projects with other major regions in the world.

We encourage you to register (online at www.efbweb.org) as personal member (no fee) and ensure that your organisation joins EFB (a modest annual fee). On our website and the EFB Flyer we have summarised what EFB can do for you. We hope that you will see your membership as an opportunity to join the family of European scientists, students and institutions promoting the safe and beneficial use of biotechnology.

BIOTECHNOLOGY

The European Federation of Biotechnology (www.efbweb.org) is a dynamic and rapidly growing forum representing academia as well as industry that on scientific grounds deal with most scientific and applied aspects of biotechnology.

3600 personal members
from 36 European and 47
non-European countries

The activities of EFB are organised in 8 Sections and 6 Task Groups. The Task Group on Public Perceptions of Biotechnology (www.efbpublic.org) is dedicated to promote dialogues on biotechnology in society.

On behalf of the European Commission, EFB is also facilitating interactions in biotechnology between Europe and China. Please visit website: www.efbinternational.org

Look for personal and institutional membership at www.efbweb.org/members/joinus.htm.

190 institutional members
from 31 European and 9
non-European countries

EUROPEAN FEDERATION OF
BIOTECHNOLOGY

What EFB can do for you

The European Federation of Biotechnology is the association of scientific institutes, societies, companies, biotechnology associations and personal members active or interested in biotechnology and its safe and beneficial applications.

EFB's mission:

- foster collaboration between European biotechnologists from industry and academia and promote biotechnology in a socially and ethically acceptable manner;
- promote the safe, sustainable and beneficial use of Nature's resources in the life sciences and technologies by supporting sound science and application of engineering and technology;
- facilitate exchange of people and ideas, organise courses for Ph.D. students and young postgraduates and stimulate innovation with the common goal of advancing biotechnology in Europe.

EFB's means:

- promoting cooperation on scientific grounds between national and cross-national member societies, personal members and scientists from academia and industry;
- offering national and cross-national societies, companies, associations and individuals interested in the promotion of biotechnology a platform for participating in and contributing to enhanced and coordinated activities in Europe and worldwide;
- maintaining good contacts with the European Commission's Directorate-General Research
- produce Briefing Papers (eg on Patenting in Biotechnology and on Biodiversity) and the series Made by Genetic Engineering.

What EFB can do for you:

- participation in the meetings, publications and general work of our Sections and Task Groups;
- benefit from the expertise and activities on important topics covered by the Sections and Task Groups;
- improve the communication between science and the general public;
- improve the scientific education of young people;
- improve safety in biotechnology;
- expand networks within the biotechnology community, nationally and internationally;
- give access and involvement in networks throughout Europe and beyond of scientists, industrialists, government officials, educationalists, journalists;
- facilitate communication with a broad range of groups from the European Commission and politicians to the media and financial sectors;
- disseminate information on European Commission programmes and policy (eg 6th Framework Programme);
- give access to EFB database when organising conferences and symposia;
- benefit from EFB's new activities to access and develop opportunities for cooperation and strategic relations in the field of biotechnology between the European Union and major countries and regions such as China, South East Asia and South America

BIOTECHNOLOGY

EFB Achievements since July 2001

Membership:

- 3600 members
- 6600 section memberships
- 190 institutional members
- 70.000 Euro in annual fees
- High level of activities and many events organised by Sections and Task Groups.

New Activities:

- New Section on Biodiversity
- European Association of Pharma Biotechnology as the First Associated Section
- Young European Biotechnologists Network (YEBN) becoming an Associated Section
- New Task Group on International Relations (TGIR)
- New Task Group on Innovation (TG-INN)
- New Task Group on European Action in Global Life Sciences (EAGLES)

Relations with European Commission

- High level contacts with the European Commission
- Invitation to meet with Commissioner Busquin
- Increasing contacts with and respect in the European Commission
- EFB joins Biotech Finance Forum Advisory Board
- Several EFB based applications to FP6

International Relations

- EC funding on major collaboration with China (EFBIC)
- High-level contacts with China
- EFB office in Beijing
- EC funding of ASEM workshop on food safety in Kuala Lumpur
- High level contact with ASEM countries

Global recognition

- Growing number of VIPs in life sciences joining Task Groups and EFB
- Growing international recognition, invitations from UNIDO and UNESCO
- Growing number of requests for interviews or articles

Integration of Regional Branch Offices (RBOs)

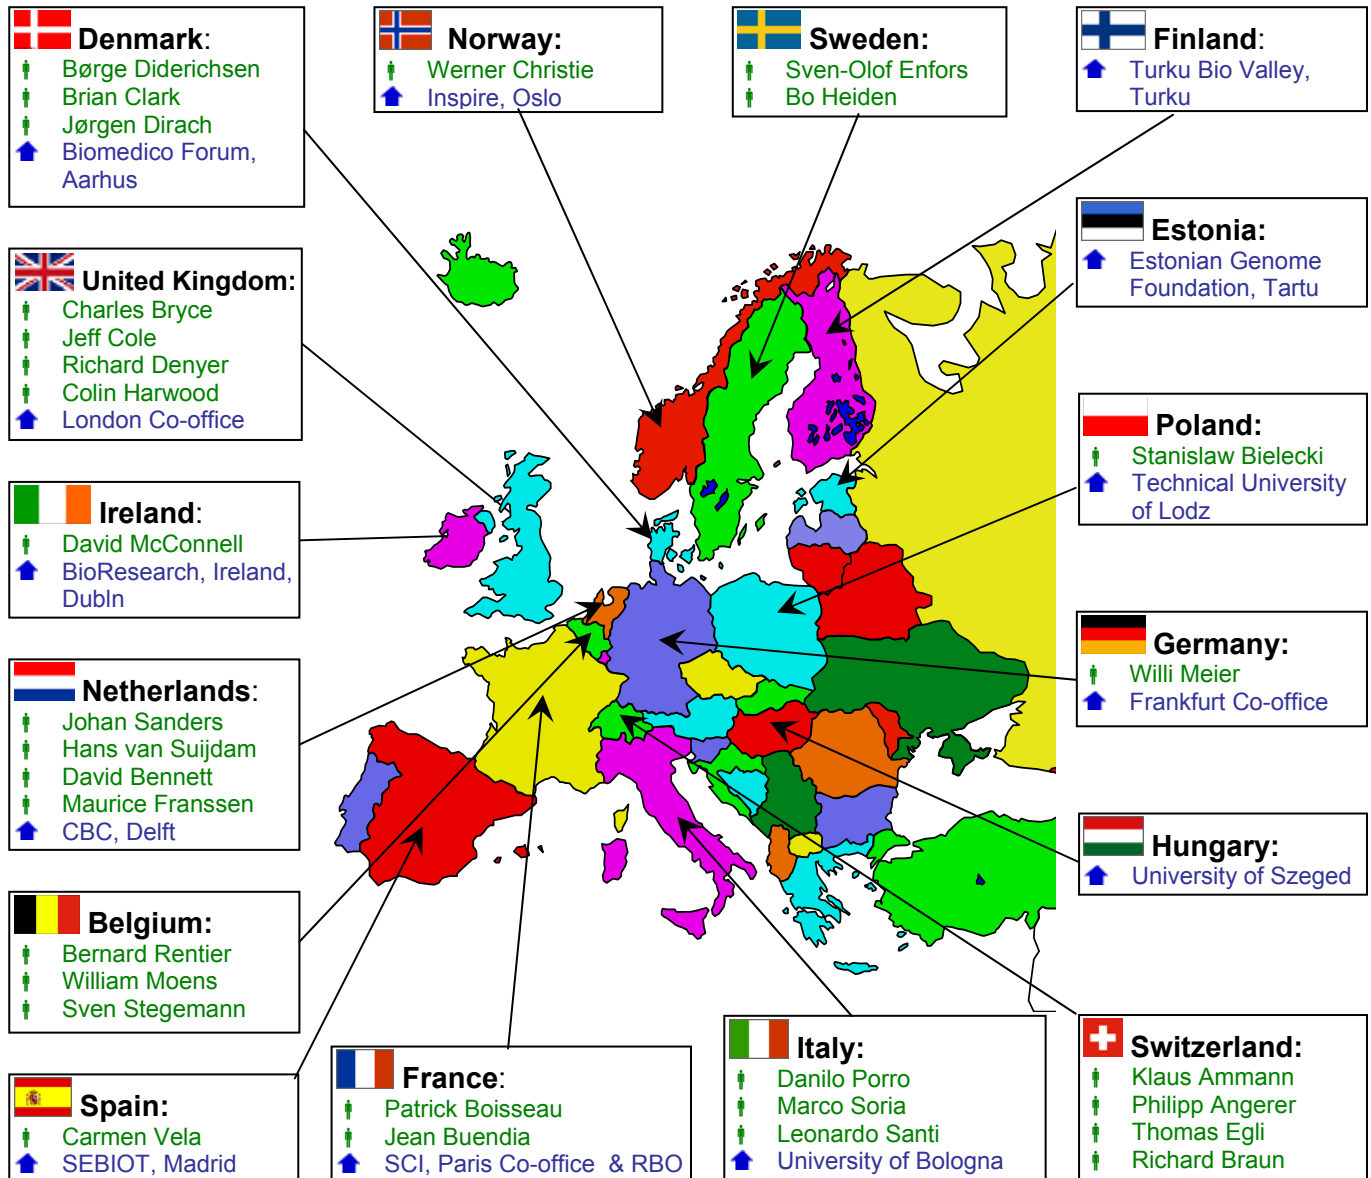

- Agreements concluded with 11 RBOs adding substantial new resources to EFB
- Several RBOs have already reached a high level of activity
- More than 100 new EFB members register each month
